

Winter Forecasting Services

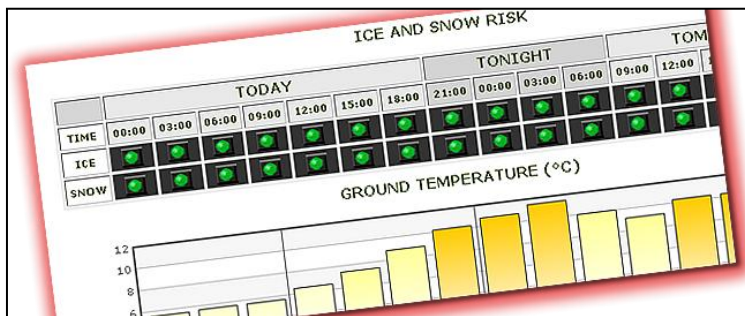

Don't slip up this winter – look after your staff and customers by ensuring your car parks and pavements are gritted in time, but only when necessary.

With Weatherquest's bespoke winter forecasting services you can be the first to know when icy conditions are expected, allowing you to prepare in advance and minimise the effects of cold weather.

Over the past few years our partnership with IceWatch Ltd has provided an incredibly useful service to their customers, saving time by avoiding unnecessary gritting runs and, more importantly, costs.

Weatherquest aims to add value to computer model predictions through intervention by our team of trained and experienced meteorologists. Through a combination of consultancy services and our new web-based products, we can alert you of forthcoming cold weather which may have an effect on your business.

If you simply require just the forecast information, then our team of experienced meteorologists can provide the support you need to keep your staff and customers on their feet when the weather turns against them.
